Nesbitt defeated by 160 votes Walker new Minden Reeve

In what is being viewed as the biggest surprise of the municipal election race in Haliburton County, Anson, Hindon and Minden incumbent Reeve Sinc Nesbitt was defeated by challenger Lloyd Walker. The final count, announced Monday night at the local council chambers, gave Walker 626 votes to Nesbitt's 466, a 160 vote margin.

As soon as the tally was announced Nesbitt extended his congratulations to the new reeve and wished him the best of luck during his two year term in office. Walker takes over as head of the municipality sometime during the first ten days of December. An exact date for the inaugural meeting has not been set.

Contacted Tuesday morning Nesbitt blamed the voters rejection on the press coverage he had received during his term in office. He said there had been a "conspiracy" by the press against him and commented, "You have what you wanted," referring to this reporter. Nesbitt said he was bitter about his defeat and disappointed.

He said that when he took office two years ago he spent six months "getting things going" in Anson, Hindon and Minden and that projects such as the library and curling club were just starting to reach the completion stage.

"I feel sorry for the township," he commented. He said he thought the township would lack a strong voice at the county council table where, Nesbitt noted, 70 percent of the taxes are spent.

"Maybe I've been at it long enough," Nesbitt stated, noting he had a great deal of work to do at his farm and business.

Incoming reeve Lloyd Walker admitted that he was surprised by the size of his victory. He reiterated a number of points made in an interview with this newspaper before the election. "I plan to run the township like a business," he commented. He said he planned to look into each department to see if cuts can be made to save tax dollars.

"I'm not going to upset the town overnight," he commented.

Walker said he would wait until he had assumed office and had an opportunity to assess where the municipality stood before making any plans or programs for the future.

"The people have spoken, and I am prepared to carry on," he said.

Walker, who has served on council in Lutterworth Township, planned to leave today for a two week vacation in the southern United States before returning to take over as reeve of the municipality.

Tie for third Council seat

Incumbent township councillor Lyle McKnight led the polls in the voting in Anson, Hindon and Minden Township municipal election. He was the only member of the present council to seek reelection to the post.

McKnight polled 821 votes. He was followed by newcomer Dean Elliott who garnered 756 votes.

The third place in the three-seat race has yet to be decided as two of the hopefuls, Larry Cummins and Ed Pergolas polled the same number of votes, 421.

According to clerk-treasurer Elinor Burke, the ballots cast for each of the two candidates will now be recounted by a judge, probably Provincial Judge George Inrig. If, after the judicial recount, the two candidates are still tied, the final seat on the council will be decided by a draw of names from a hat.

No date has been set for the recount, but it is expected the procedure will be carried out before the end of the month. The new council takes over during the first week in December.

A fifth candidate in the local council race, Leroy Lichty polled 366 votes.

Deputy Reeve Douglas Pritchard, the incumbent, was acclaimed to his post.

"Business as usual" - Vick

"It will be business as usual for Snowdon Township", re-elected Reeve Bob Vick said Tuesday following the municipal election. Vick turned aside a challenge from Don Smedmor, with a 221 to 116 vote margin.

"I have no big ideas for the next two years," the successful candidate stated.

Vick was critical of the all candidates night meeting held in the township prior to the election. He said most of the questions were what he described as "petty beefs" that dealt with the past. "Nobody was looking ahead," he commented. He noted that the township has limited funds to spend on municipal roads and the council had attempted to meet the needs where they were the greatest. "We only have so much money to work with," he commented responding to criticisms voiced at the earlier meeting.

Challenger Don Smedmor said he was surprised by the wide margin between himself and the incumbent. He said he

The slate returned in Lutterworth

"The Slate" in Lutterworth Township was returned to office by voters in that municipality on Monday. Reeve Ron Gambell and three councillors, Bill Valentine, Bill Prentice and Al Stott all captured the favour of the voters.

The four, along with Deputy Reeve Glynne Lewis, who was acclaimed to office, presented themselves as a slate of candidates for the election. The fact that all five sought to serve as one council drew the ire of some candidates, but obviously the voters felt the incumbent members were doing a good job.

Reeve Ron Gambell described the results as a "resounding victory". He said he was pleased the slate of candidates was returned and that he was looking forward to continuing the business of the council with the individuals he had worked closely with in the past.

"It has taken us three years to get the municipality to where it is now," he commented. "The record speaks for itself. The finances are now in good shape and we are all pleased with the effort being made by the township staff." The incumbent reeve stated that the voters appeared to be pleased with the record of the present council.

Looking ahead, the reeve said that during the next two years he was eager to foster more co-operation between the various townships to encourage the growth of tourism in the area. He also said the council will be looking for a light industry to move into the township on a 100 acre plot of land the municipality owns north of Kinmount.

Gambell polled 285 votes to 145 for the challenger, Ingram Wessell. In the council race the final totals, in the order of the votes obtained, were: Bill Valentine 329, Bill Prentice 323, Allan Stott 258, Floyd Pogue 119, Mervin Brohm 114 and Peter Stribling 56.

Kinmount LCBO loses 3 cases

A break-in at the Kinmount Liquor Control Board store is under investigation by the Cobocok detachment of the OPP.

The break-in occurred Saturday evening at 8:15 p.m. According to the police two youths attempted to break into the building located on Kinmount's main street by forcing the rear door of the building. This action proved unsuccessful and the pair then pried open a window to gain access to the store. A third youth waited for the intruders in a car.

Taken in the break-in were two cases of scotch whisky and one case of rye whisky. The goods were valued at $250.

Although it hasn't been confirmed, it is believed a number of passers-by witnessed the incident as it took place.

The matter is being investigated by Constable Moore.

With a stiff northerly wind whipping at the flags, Minden residents gathered at the gates of the municipal cemetery Tuesday morning to pay tribute to Canada's war dead. Close to 75 were on hand for the Remembrance Day service.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

The grade 12 and 13 students at Haliburton High School showed their very real appreciation last week for the efforts that went towards the organization of a local "Career Week". Clubs and organizations plus individuals Ken Rydman and Art Ward all received plaques from the Student Council in gratitude for the part they played in the week's activities. That they would respond so enthusiastically indicates how long overdue such a program has been.

Not just our Chamber, but many throughout Ontario have been expressing concern for some time about the lack of direction students are getting in career selection. You can't blame the schools or their counsellors completely for how can they be expected to be fully aware of the many factors that are involved in the choosing of a career? No one person can have access to all that is required. By bringing together businessmen involved in almost 30 different fields of endeavour the students were able to obtain detailed descriptions of what to expect in each.

The response from the students and the community was encouraging. The school board must now be convinced to allow more time to be devoted to carrying out the program. Of the 30 presentations that were available, the students could select only 3, and from 3 excellent panel presentations they were limited to attending only 1. In addition, participation was limited only to students in grades 12 and 13. There is no reason to expect that those in grade 9 are not equally concerned with their future.

The Board is concerned with losing time from classroom studies — and well they should be — but the classroom topics become far more meaningful when the students gain a better feeling for the end result. This year was an excellent beginning for what is hoped to be a largely expanded program in years to come.

Guild concert series

The Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts packaged a series of four concerts beginning on November 14 with Maple Sugar, and followed by The Guild Choir on December 10, The Women of Margaret Laurence on February 20, and Maureen Forrester on April 26. The response to this series has been exceptional and they now advise us that all seats for all performances have been sold.

What's new

We reported earlier that

Wig-A-Mog was acquiring an indoor pool, but while Betz Pools were here they installed not one but two pools which will be fully enclosed. Locarno on-the-Lake was the additional installation site and we can expect to see a lot of year round activity at these resorts in the coming years. This is just one more example of how determined resort operators are becoming to overcome the traditional two or three month season, and it's paying off throughout the community.

In Minden a new garage and showroom is taking shape on Ron Gambell's used car premises which will be a real asset to the area. Homestead Plumbing Warehouse's new showroom began to take on its final shape last week in none other than solid log construction as produced by "1867 Confederation Log Homes". Along with a similar design for the new library on the other side of town these attractive new buildings will add much to the character of Minden.

In Haliburton Village Cauldron's has now closed their doors after selling out their stock to Haliburton Pharmacy. Hopefully with the increased business now going to Haliburton Pharmacy this will not result in a net loss in jobs in town and we can look forward to welcoming some new business in the old Cauldron location.

Charlie Tyler of Tyler's Appliances has a computer. It's a large unit with a varied range of functions and capabilities. Charlie is using it to handle his parts inventory, bookkeeping procedures and to quickly identify what parts he may need when responding to a trouble call. He is also prepared to provide a service to others who may have some use for a computer in their business. A few are already making use of it and Charlie would be glad to talk to others who may consider taking advantage of it.

A friend is lost

To many long time visitors to Haliburton, Stan Parish was not just a businessman but an institution. "Stan's Gas & Gab" it said on the sign, and that's exactly what it meant when Stan was around. The gab was always cheerful and usually came with a little joke. Stan passed away Friday night and he will be missed tremendously by both those that knew him well, and those that only met him occasionally. Haliburton County has lost an ardent supporter and a true friend. Our sincere sympathy to his family.

Assisted by members of the Minden Kinsmen Club, Marg Prentice places a wreath at the cairn during the Remembrance Day services Tuesday morning.

"Close call" prompts bus patrol suggestion

Community Services officer with the Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, Constable Wim Magee, recently made a presentation to the Haliburton County Board of Education Transportation Committee concerning the use of school bus safety patrols. The following report was prepared by the OPP on the reasons for suggesting the use of the patrols and role they would take in assisting students on and off buses and maintaining order on the vehicles.

The proposal is a result of activities in which some students have been participating during school bus runs. Throwing things about the inside a school bus and moving from seat to seat while the bus is in motion, is viewed as a serious safety problem. These type of actions can lead to injuries and may affect the entire load of students by indirectly distracting the driver and causing a collision. Thoughtless actions by 4 or 5 students can quickly jeopardize the 60 other students on the larger buses.

The second concern results from a "close call" which occurred in the Highland Grove area, when a school bus, which was stopped and unloading a student, was passed by a dump truck. In this case the mother of the 4 year old student was present to assist her daughter across the road, when the truck passed by the bus. Apsley OPP investigated the incident and have credited the mother with averting a fatal accident.

It was felt by the investigating officer that school bus patrols would serve a valuable purpose, each and every day if they were implemented throughout the county. One of the key functions of the patrol is to assist in the loading and unloading at bus stops, which is the extreme hazard point of any bus route. This is especially true when the bus contains young elementary school students.

A 20 minute film was shown on the operation of school bus patrols and their function within a school bus system. These patrols are used by many boards of education throughout Ontario. It was explained that normally there are 2 patrollers on each bus and the initial cost of the patrol belts would be not more than $5.00 per bus. The committee was also advised that additional insurance is usually put on the patrollers through the School Board policies by means of an endorsement at a relatively low cost.

The OPP are quite concerned about the safety of the school bus system and view patrols as a positive method of improving the safety factor on a daily basis. The OPP are now awaiting a decision from the Transportation Committee of the Haliburton County Board of Education, on the subject of school bus safety patrols.

Snowdon

gave the election campaign his "best shot" and felt it was unlikely he would run again, although he noted, "Two years is a long way off".

Smedmor noted that he had drawn more votes in his challenge of Bob Vick than any other candidate in the past.

The candidate said he accepted the decision of the voters and he was content to live with the results.

Incumbent Deputy Reeve John Francis easily beat back a challenge from Ray Cox to remain in office. Francis garnered 229 votes to 104 for Cox.

The three councillors to be elected were Fred Simmons and Bryan Neville, both newcomers with totals of 236 and 218 respectively and incumbent Dwain Wruth with 205. Burt Smith was the fourth and losing candidate in the race polling 178 votes.

Board of Education representative for Snowdon, Ralph Young, was acclaimed to office.

Charges laid in break-ins

Two Minden area youths have been charged with break, enter and theft following an incident at Mr. Fogg's Restaurant in Carnarvon.

According to police access was gained to the building by breaking a window and unlocking a rear door. Damage was estimated at $150. $441 in cash was removed from the restaurant. Police have recovered $100.

Charged with break, enter and theft and possession of stolen property are Gordon J. Burns, 20, of RR 2 Minden and Robert W. Mann, 17, of RR 2 Minden. The pair will appear in court November 18.

Constable Mike Maher is in charge of the investigation.

Cottage break-in

Two other youths from the Haliburton area have been charged with similar offenses following an accident November 5 or 6 on Grass Lake in the West Guilford area.

Police report that the cottage belonging to a Mr. Jubb was broken into and $4 worth of property removed.

Charged in the incident are Martin D. Robichaud, 18, of RR 1 Haliburton and S. Winn, 23, also of RR 1 Haliburton. Robichaud has also been charged two additional counts of break, enter and theft involving a cottage owned by John Tyson. Property removed from that cottage on two occasions was valued at $75.

Constables Al Bibby and Bob Pearson are investigating the incidents.

A chance to remember

It was heartening to see such a large turn-out at Minden's war memorial Tuesday morning.

Not long ago, Remembrance Day slipped by virtually unnoticed in this municipality with those interested in marking the day standing a lonely vigil at the cairn or joining the Legion service in Haliburton Village.

This year, despite blustery cold weather, close to 100 were on hand. They represented Scouts, Cubs, Beavers, members of the municipal council, representatives of the local OPP detachment and the fire brigade plus citizens of the community. The music class from Archie Stouffer Elementary School, playing under very difficult conditions, added a great deal to the brief service.

It is especially important that the generations who have not been scarred by the memory of a world war realize and appreciate the sacrifice made by Canadians in defense of freedom. Services, such as the one held here yesterday, provide an opportunity to bring these thoughts to mind and a chance for all of us to say thank you to those who laid down their lives for this country.

A voice will be missed

With the defeat of Sinclair Nesbitt for the post of reeve, this municipality and Haliburton County has lost a persistent and vocal supporter.

Nesbitt led the Anson, Hindon and Minden council for the past two years and had previously served on council in Stanhope Township.

In his years in public office "Sinc" was anything but quiet. He was never reticent to state his opinion even when it ran roughly against the grain, which it often did. At County Council he carefully protected this township's interests while at the same time never forgetting the county-wide benefits to be gained through co-operation and compromise. His dedication to progress in the county is evident in his participation in the Economic Development Commission and the formulation of the Haliburton County Planning Strategy.

Nesbitt actively sought help from provincial, and on occasion federal authorities, sometimes succeeding, other times failing, but always making sure the senior levels of government knew that Haliburton County was not to be taken lightly.

We often disagreed sharply with the direction in which the reeve was taking this township and the methods he used to reach those objectives. However, his loyalty to Anson, Hindon and Minden and Haliburton County was never in doubt.

County politics will probably be a little quieter now, and we doubt if they will ever be the same.

F.O.N.

Will Ontario's future include a system of wilderness parks to preserve our natural heritage? Within the next two years, the answer to that question will likely be resolved, with the bureaucrats of the Ministry of Natural Resources and the anonymous executives of a handful of giant pulp and paper companies playing a key role.

Officially, we will have our wilderness parks. A 1978 provincial policy document sets a target of establishing one major park in each of Ontario's 13 site regions, so that the broad range of natural landscapes will be well

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott, M.P.

Prime Minister Trudeau has launched a two-pronged attack on the very foundations of the Canadian confederation, first with his ill-conceived constitution resolution, and now with his October 28th federal budget.

Trudeau's assault on Canada's traditional institutions, and his efforts to replace the BNA Act with his own constitution have brought Canada closer to a complete break-up than any events in our history.

Alienation of our four western provinces has grown over the past few years, under a succession of Trudeau governments in Ottawa, and these latest moves on the part of the Prime Minister have brought the west to the brink of separation.

The recent constitution proposals, if adopted, would virtually strip the provinces of their present powers to legislate in certain areas of provincial jurisdiction, and would exclude the provinces from any meaningful role in amending any future constitution.

While the provincial governments were still reeling from the impact of the constitution resolution, Finance Minister Allan MacEachen tabled a budget in the House that would allow the federal government to levy taxes on natural gas, both for domestic use and for export.

This new taxing authority invades a traditional provincial tax jurisdiction. Before the budget was tabled, Alberta Treasurer Lou Hyndman said that a federal tax on the export of natural gas would be "a declaration of war" against the producing provinces.

Individual taxpayers and consumers will also feel the brunt of the new federal budget. One of the adverse effects of the budget will be greatly increased gasoline and fuel oil prices, an issue that our government was defeated on last February.

The Conservative government had planned to increase gasoline and fuel oil prices by 18 cents per gallon, but our plan called for grants to families with oil-heated homes to offset the increase in oil prices. The Liberal budget will result in even higher gasoline and oil prices than we had proposed, but without the offsetting grants to homeowners.

Another blow at the Canadian wage-earner is a 33 per cent increase in Unemployment Insurance premiums, effective January 1, 1981. This is double the increase that our government felt would be enough to keep the UIC fund viable. This excessive increase in UIC premiums suggests that the government expects an increase in unemployment as a result of its budgetary proposals.

Present UIC premiums are $1.36 per week on each $100.00 in earnings for employees, and $2.52 for employers. On earnings of $250.00 per week the employee will be paying $4.50 per week, or $234.00 per year.

The employer will be paying $327.60 per year, for an employer/employee contribution of $661.60 per year. Using a round figure of 10 million insured workers, and an average weekly salary of $250.00, the UIC fund should receive in excess of 6.5 billion dollars in the year 1981.

The budget contains provisions allowing the government to use tax monies to purchase privately-owned oil companies, and another provision will allow the government to confiscate 25 per cent of the assets of any company that discovers oil in the northern and off-shore oil fields. This will discourage oil exploration at a time when new sources of oil are vital to our future energy needs.

Survey finds snowmobiling to add a $6.5 m boost to county economy

Snowmobiling gives a six to seven million dollar boost to the Highlands economy according to a survey carried out by the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association. The survey was undertaken in March of this year with the results being released to members two weeks ago.

According to the president of the association, Tom Prentice, the survey was done to prove the importance of snowmobiling to the local economy and to impress politicians at local and provincial levels with the need for increased support of the group's efforts to expand the county trail network. The group currently maintains 545 kilometres of trails.

The association receives a majority of its support from members through membership fees and from the provincial government through grants for trail maintenance. Prentice noted that trail assistance from the provincial level has not increased in the past three years and the organization is hard pressed to maintain the existing trails and expand the network.

The survey was carried out last March 9. As the report of the findings note, the date marked the end of a rather disappointing winter season in southern Ontario. March 9 was also the weekend prior to the traditional spring school break. For these two reasons the association feels the survey results underestimate the true impact of the sport of snowmobiling in the county.

Members of the association were stationed at four main highways in the county, Highways 35, 121, the road linking Norland and Kinmount (Hwy. 503), and the Vankoughnet Road. On duty from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m., the spotters were instructed to count the number of snowmobiles (in tow or in the back of trucks) observed leaving the county. The date was a Sunday.

The association also sent surveys to its business members to ascertain the impact snowmobiling has on area merchants. Other members of the group were also questioned as to their snowmobile and spending habits.

From these three sources the association believes it has been able to prepare a picture of snowmobiling in the county. The group believes that funds, from the provincial or local government, invested now in trail expansion and management could greatly enhance the impact of snowmobiling on the winter economy of the county.

The spotters located on the four exit points from this portion of the county counted 2342 vehicles with 613 snowmobiles in evidence. Apparently through an earlier study the group has determined that 90% of non-resident snowmobilers leave their machines at the cottage. The group assumed therefore that any one weekend during the winter upwards of 6130 snowmobiles were being used in the county, many of them on association trails.

A survey of its members showed that the average respondent spent $50 per day when snowmobiling in Haliburton. This assessment is based on 44 replies received from 370 sent out.

Allowing for a 12% group which said they brought most of their weekend provisions with them, the association estimates that, with an average of 24 snowmobiling days per person in the county per season, the snowmobiling fraternity spends close to $6,500,000 in a year.

Interestingly, 81% of those surveyed indicated they would spend more time in the county snowmobiling if the trail system was improved and expanded. A second question to the membership revealed that 67% of the snowmobilers would not come to the county if there were no marked and groomed trails available for them to ride on.

In its survey of merchants who are participating members of the HCSA, the group discovered that 90% of the merchants felt improved trails would result in increased business. The merchants said their businesses collectively represented 138 full-time and 18 part-time employees. Close to 85% of those merchants said they would probably expand their operations if there was an increase in winter business. All of the merchants responding to the survey said their business is helped by the fact groomed and marked trails are available in the county for snowmobilers.

The association had sent surveys to 98 business members. Twenty merchants responded.

The HCSA admits that its method of assessing the impact of snowmobiling on the local economy was not "scientific". The association notes that there are other, more professional methods of carrying out an assessment. "However, due to the total lack of any statistics on recreational snowmobiling in Haliburton County, the figures the association have amassed represents the first organized attempt to assess the importance of this sport to the local economy," the survey report notes. The HCSA said it welcomed a more complete survey of snowmobiling in the county if any group wished to undertake the project.

According to association president Tom Prentice, the findings of the survey underlines the importance of the sport to the winter economy of the area. "The Bruce Snowmobile association last year closed its trails to the public," Prentice said. "The trails there will only be open to members. The Orillia Club have closed their trails as well." The HCSA president noted that closing these trails to the public will place greater pressure on the Haliburton network.

Clubs which limit the use of their trails to members lose provincial government subsidies. Prentice estimates the vast majority of those using snowmobile trails in this county are not members of the local association.

Prentice emphasized that the local association has no intention of closing the trails to the public. "The matter has never been considered by anyone on the executive," he commented. The president said that rumours had been circulating that the association was considering that option. "The group was formed to help bring business into the county," Prentice said. "That is still our goal and restricting the trail use to members only would be counter to the whole purpose."

The president points out that according to the survey of area merchants, expanding the snowmobile traffic in the county could mean 50 more jobs at area businesses. "I'm sure the province or local governments would be eager to welcome an industry which would add 50 jobs to the local economy. We are offering a similar opportunity and not finding the support we think we deserve."

The president noted that details from the survey have been used in making presentations to obtain grants from the group.

Council wants clarification represented. But so far, we have only three provincially designated wilderness areas: Polar Bear on the Hudson Bay coast, Quetico in the northwest, and Killarney on the corner of Georgian Bay. Competition from the forest industry for essentially all of the remaining forests is a hard fact of life for parks planners and wilderness buffs. The reality, in contrast to official optimism, is that the remaining complement of wilderness parks will be very difficult to achieve.

Just what are these "wilderness" parks, and are they worth the sacrifice of more pulpwood or more minerals to feed our hungry industries?

First and foremost, wilderness parks are intended to be substantial areas where the forces of nature are permitted to function freely. That means we deliberately set aside some areas where the trees and animals can live and die and be replaced through the natural order of things, rather than through the management of man.

Within a short time, within our lifetime, these designated wilderness areas will be the only places remaining where the vegetation and wildlife are not the result of man's interference in the form of logging or agriculture or urbanization.

Wilderness can be viewed in this light as a kind of insurance policy or even a humble admission that we might be able to learn something in future from a natural order that has evolved over millions of years. There are other wilderness values too: a special kind of recreational experience, an inspiration to many of Canada's best-known artists and writers, an essential habitat for threatened species such as the caribou. But whatever the reasons, we must ensure that decisions to establish or deny wilderness parks are made by a well-informed and rational process, rather than sacrificed to the pressing demands of the moment to exploit our resources to the utter limit.

Lutterworth Township council will seek clarification from the Moore Lake Association with regard to the imposition of a speed limit and water skiing ban on the Gull River south of the main portion of Moore Lake.

The matter was raised at the November 6 meeting of the council after a letter from association president Chris Wahlroth was read at the meeting. The members of the council were in agreement that a water skiing ban on the river portion would help ease erosion on the banks, but were less enthusiastic about imposing a speed limit.

Councillor Bill Valentine, who also serves as vice president of the lake association told the meeting the biggest problem came from ski boats. "If ski boats were banned from the river, the problem would be resolved," Valentine stated. He noted that a speed limit involved problems of enforcement and posting and maintaining the proper signs.

"It is easy to see if someone is skiing," Valentine said, "but determining if they are exceeding a speed limit is much more difficult."

Valentine said the association meeting held in October had discussed the skiing ban, but he could not recall the speed limit being considered.

Reeve Ron Gambell said

the ski ban on the river portion would be acceptable to him, but he could see no reason to ban skiing from the lake. The other members of council agreed with this assessment.

The council agreed to not make any final decision on the request until contacting the association for clarification.

(The power to set a speed limit or ban skiing does not rest with the municipal council. The Ministry of Natural Resources is responsible for setting these limitations. However the MNR rarely enacts such provisions without the recommendations of the local municipal council).

Charge changed

A charge of rape, laid against a Dwight resident last month has been withdrawn. Police report that the man, 20 year old Kenneth Gordon Card is now charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency. The accused is scheduled to appear in court December 9.

The investigation is being carried out by Constable Al Bibby.

3 accidents - $21,850 damage

It was an expensive week for automobile accidents according to the regular report issued by Minden OPP. In the three accidents reported, $21,850 worth of damage was done to vehicles, buildings and highway guide posts. All mishaps occurred within an eight hour period in the early morning of November 9.

The first incident took place at 12:30 a.m. at the Harcourt Community Centre. Linus Trainor, 36, of Markham was the driver of a 1977 model car which smashed into a parked vehicle. The parked car, owned by William Findlay of Haliburton, then crashed into the block wall of the community centre.

Damage to Trainor's vehicle was estimated at $2500, to the Findlay car $4000 and to the block wall, $5000.

The incident was investigated by Constable Gray.

A half hour later, on Highway 35 north of Minden, a van driven by Roger Lobe, 40, of Toronto left the road and struck a series of guide posts on the east shoulder of the road. Damage to the 1977 model van was estimated at $5000. It will cost $350 to fix the guide posts.

Constable Brian Dunham

investigated.
At 8:30 the same morning, Michael Billins, 25, of Toronto, was travelling south on a private road in Glamorgan Township when the vehicle entered the west ditch and rolled into a swamp coming to rest on its roof. Damage to the pick-up truck was estimated at $5000.

Minden resident Margo Ziorjen wasn't too sure what she was uncovering when she started to dig this multi-digit vegetable from her garden. It turned out the unusual growth was four carrots growing from a single head. The twisted quartet was grown from seed purchased in Minden.

Storing those staples

Bread always stays fresh longer in the refrigerator, right?

Wrong. Keep it in the breadbox unless it was baked without preservatives or you're freezing it.

On the other hand, moist breads such as English muffins or "brown and serve" rolls should always be refrigerated. And avoid putting them in the shelves on the door because it's warmer there.

Specialists with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food have some tips on storing basics such as bread, flour and sugar to preserve their quality and save your money.

The freezer is the best place to store bread for long periods. Thaw only as much as the family will eat in a few days. If too much is taken out, it can be safely refrozen.

Keep the breadbox clean. Wipe out crumbs every day and wash it once a week. Soap could affect bread's flavor, so baking soda and water are preferable.

White flour is no problem to store. Keep it in an air-tight container. Flours that contain wheat germ, such as stone-ground, whole wheat and graham, may become rancid if held at room temperature for any length of time. It is better to put the original package in a larger plastic bag and store it in the freezer.

Air-tight containers will protect white and icing sugar from too much moisture. Brown sugar can become lumpy or very hard. If this begins, put it in a tightly closed container with a slice of apple to provide moisture. Check it frequently to make sure it isn't mouldy or dry. If the entire package is hard, put in an air-tight container large enough to hold the sugar and a small dish of water. It will take a while, but it works.

Proper storage of food and supplies we use every day can easily be overlooked. Giving them the attention they need will protect their quality and your grocery dollars.

Province undertakes 3 acid rain studies

The Ontario Ministry of the Environment has launched three studies to determine the economic and social costs and damages caused by acid rain. The studies are part of the Province's Acidic Precipitation in Ontario Study (APIOS).

"We need a clear picture of what this phenomenon costs the people of Ontario," Environment Minister Harry C. Parrott said. "Many scientists and various agencies have made rough estimates. But guesswork is not good enough when the price tags on planned control programs are approaching hundreds of millions of dollars."

"Our research programs are aimed at determining damage costs, and the costs of various strategies required for effective solutions."

The research will measure actual and potential damages from three perspectives: in physical units, such as the numbers of lakes, fish populations, wildlife, forests or crops affected; in dollar terms; and in terms of environmental amenities.

The three studies comprise:

1. A Tourism and Recreation Study, currently being carried out by Toronto consultants Currie, Coopers and Lybrand Ltd., which will generate estimates of the impacts of acid rain on the vital tourism industry, including tourist and recreation expenditures and the jobs that depend on that sector.

2. An Amenity Value Survey Study, being designed by ARA consultants of Toronto, will more clearly discern and estimate values which people place on environmental and recreational resources which are vulnerable to acid rain. This survey is also expected to provide new data on recreational activities, and will be carried out during the summer of 1981.

3. A Financial Value Study, which will focus on actual and potential effects on sectors of the economy which produce goods and services for sale and for which market prices are generally available. Commercial fishing, corrosion of structures and materials, effects on native fisheries, reduced production in forestry and agriculture are among factors to be taken into account. This study is about to go to tender.

Dr. Parrott said that when these studies are completed, Ontario will be able to move ahead quickly with further control strategies since the Ministry's scientific data will clearly determine the cost of physical damages due to acid precipitation and, therefore, the benefits of abatement.

$41 million for acid rain

The Honourable John Roberts, Minister of the Environment, announced recently that the Canadian Government will spend $41 million between now and 1984 to combat acid rain.

In a speech presented before the National Conference on the Environment held in Toronto on the occasion of Canadian Environment Week, Mr. Roberts said that the Canadian Cabinet has approved the joint submission of three government departments to launch a comprehensive scientific, engineering and socio-economic research program to design strategies to control acid-causing pollutants, to lessen their adverse effects and to protect the fisheries resource in Canada.

Besides Environment Canada, the Departments of Fisheries and Oceans, and Health and Welfare, will participate in this endeavour to stop acid rain. The resulting knowledge is also required to substantiate Canada's position in seeking co-operative action from the United States.

These activities are in addition to on-going research by the Departments of Energy, Mines and Resources and Agriculture Canada into other potential areas of acid rain impact.

Environment Canada alone will devote $7.5 million to its acid rain program in 1980-81, as compared with the $4 million originally earmarked for that purpose.

The discussion paper that accompanied the Cabinet submission is also being made available to the public added Mr. Roberts, a firm believer in enhanced public access to government information.

The new library - cultural centre

The following report was prepared by the Minden Library-Cultural Centre Committee. It explains some of the considerations which went into the selection of the building currently being erected on the site of the Bobcaygeon Road.

The Library-Cultural Centre Committee has considered floor plan after floor plan. Then why a log building?

A feasibility study was mandatory in order to qualify for a Wintario grant. The study, by the firm of Nicol and Johnston, recommended a useable space of 2430 sq. ft. The split block construction fell short of this area by 69 sq. ft. The additional space gained by the 6" log wall was compared to a 14" wall width with 2" x 4" studs was 216 sq. ft.

This extra space has been added to the common room, which at 675 sq. ft. will be able to accommodate such gatherings as the Horticultural Society, Women's Institute, and any other groups needing a meeting place. Since many senior citizens belong to these groups it should be a boon to them since it will not be necessary to climb stairs.

All doors in the Centre, which includes the Library, Art Gallery and Common Room are 34" wide to admit wheel chairs. A ramp shall be installed at the 2 step entrance.

Both the planned split block wall and the 6" log wall have an R factor of 12. The 6" log has been tested by the government and hydro to give an R 12 factor in resisting heat loss. Small pieces of wood are readily flammable. However, logs compactly fitted will char but beyond that it takes a long time for them to burn. Insurance of $100,000 will cost $200 per year. The heat bill as estimated by hydro will be just over $1,200 if the rooms are constantly at 72 degrees.

The shell of the log building has a finished interior. The erection of studs etc. (amounting to 2211 linear feet) 20 bundles of 90 sq. ft. each, R 12 insulation batts and 78 sheets of 1/2" gyproc installed and finished would cost $5,000. This will not have to be expended on the log building.

Since the Art Gallery and its workspace is over 100 sq. ft. short of the allotted feasibility study space, it has been agreed that the larger pictures will hang on the walls of the Common Room, for this room well exceeds the recommended space. The Common Room shall have a moveable dividing wall so that it may be divided for work sessions.

The Council would accept the log structure over the the split block building if this was the wish of the Library-Cultural Centre Committee. The Committee agreed unanimously since it provided extra space equal to a room 12' x 17'6" in size. They realized the cost would be more but that $5,000 could be deducted as the inside walls were finished. The 210 sq. ft. extra space would also have to be considered in any cost comparison.

The above has to do with dollar and common sense. The Committee felt that the aesthetic value of the log building was far beyond that of a split block. The outstanding McMichael Gallery at Kleinburg is of log. We felt the uniqueness of its structure would enhance its value as an attraction both in the County and beyond. Minden must afford that which entices the public to this locality. Here we need a culture centre to develop a four square growth.

Most parents hope for a better development climate for their children than they themselves had. It has been the aim of the Committee to achieve this reality. We have raised over $55,000 toward this project. Our hope is that we may continue to acquire the necessary funds for the completion. We hope this centre and its exhibits shall be known throughout the Province as a place well worth visiting.

Workmen started laying the first course of logs at the new library-cultural centre complex in Minden on Tuesday. It is expected the shell of the structure will be erected within a week.

Soyer's Association hold annual meeting

Almost 30 members attended the fall meeting of the Soyer's Lake Rate Payers' Association Incorporated at Lakeview Lodge on Sunday, October 21, 1980, under the chairmanship of Mr. Lew McCorriston, President.

Topics discussed covered a wide range. Particular interest was in the proposed development of the Hislop property by Couchiching Real Estate.

While realizing the useful role played by developers, concern was expressed about the minimum area of cottage lots and length of frontage. Accordingly the Association agreed to continue to advocate amendment to the zoning by-law covering all new development, to establish a new lot frontage requirement on Soyer's Lake of 200 feet and a minimum lot area of one acre, and passed a motion to that effect.

A second motion was passed with respect to the Hislop property. A committee will be established by the Association with discretion to negotiate with the owners of the property and make representations before the Ontario Municipal Board regarding the topographical and other features of the property, recommending that no lot should be permitted with a frontage of less than 150 feet and an area of approximately one-half acre. It appeared that some of the broad recommendations by the Department of the Environment concerning the maximum number of cottages on Soyer's Lake were difficult to reconcile with local government requirements.

Soyer's Lake has a comparatively large periphery compared with its surface area: its area is 813 acres and its periphery 10 1/2 miles, whereas a circular lake covering 813 acres would have a periphery of only 4 miles.

On the question of water pollution and acid rain, it was reported that Soyer's Lake was fortunate in having a natural rock formation which counteracted a low P.H. reading, so there was no advantage to be gained from "Liming".

On the social and athletic side, members will explore the possibility of establishing a tennis group, using the facilities at Lakeview Lodge. The regatta was enjoyed so much this year that several members felt it should be an annual event - preferably with more wind for next year's events!

The Association has 12 directors, 6 of whom are elected each year for a 2-year term. The following were elected for the ensuing 2-year term: Bob Thompson, John Thorne, Carole Lidgold, Burt Tait, Lew McCorriston and Bruce Birrell.

Schedule

Upcoming games: Friday, November 14 - Sunderland Juveniles at Minden, 8:00 p.m. Saturday, November 15 - 3:00 p.m. Bobcaygeon Atoms at Minden; 4:00 p.m. Haliburton Pee Wees at Minden; 5:30 p.m. Beaverton Bantams at Minden and 7:00 p.m. Beaverton Midgets at Minden.

The Minden Minor Hockey Association would like to thank Ray Goulet for the time and effort he gave our boys during the hockey school. Coaches feel he did a real good job. Thanks also to Steve Davies and Jerry Campbell for helping Mr. Goulet.

Our Hallowe'en dance was again a success. The costumes were really good and the $50.00 door prize was won by Robbie Luke of Minden. We made over $560 plus extras for our dance. The executive would like to thank everyone who helped in any way to make this possible.

Ray Goulet leads Minden minor hockey players through their paces during a pre-season training session held here several weeks ago. The minor hockey season opened November 1 and teams in all divisions are travelling out of town to meet squads from other communities.

Canadian women are the world. Three and three-belong to some organization, and Monday through Friday they meet. Some to to the Church, the Hospital, their go, here is what happens.

Come half-past four and some

Letters from Lee

Lee Potter is an area high school student who is spending a year in Mexico through the Rotary International student exchange program. Her visit to Mexico is sponsored by the Minden Rotary Club. Lee has agreed to share her experiences with our readers through the letters she sends home to her family. The following are excerpts from a letter received in early October.

On Thursday night the Rotary Club took us to the theatre in Saltillo to see a symphony. It was very good and they said we could attend anything we wanted at the theatre. There are ballets, operas and symphonies and I plan to take advantage of them. The club has also said we can take dancing, singing or instrumental music lessons and that they'll organize and pay for them.

On Friday night we went to a corn roast. We ate so much we could hardly move. They served cake as well and I tried as many different kinds as possible. Corn on the cob here is served with cream and chilli powder on it and is it ever good!

When I got home that evening, my sister asked if I had eaten a lot of corn, and I said yes. She said, "Are you ever going to be sick in the morning." And, in the morning, was I ever sick! That was a day ago and my stomach is still queasy.

They tell me the corn here is hard to digest and if you eat too much before you go to bed, you get very sick, especially when you are not used to it. Not to mention, we also went out for ice cream after the feed of corn.

Yesterday, some friends and I decided we were going to climb one of the mountains near here. It was a fair climb and especially difficult for me since I was still holding my stomach from the corn roast the night before.

But we made it to the top and got some very nice pictures of the beautiful view of Saltillo. After, we went out for pizza, but I could hardly stand the look of it so I just sat quietly and drank a glass of water. We then went out to a movie.

The movies here are in English mostly, with Spanish sub-titles. But in many instances, the translations aren't correct so those of us who understand English will start laughing at a joke or something and no one else in the theatre will laugh. Do we ever get stared at and feel embarrassed. Which, by the way, you never say since the word embarrassed means 'pregnant' in Spanish.

Tonight I went to a birthday party for a three year old girl. She is the daughter of the president of the Rotary Club and he invited the exchange students to attend. The party was held at the Lions Club and there were about 50 people attending. There were hired musicians, clowns, a very large cake (which looked like a wedding cake with a doll on top dressed in the same costume as the birthday girl) and a pinata. The little girl wore a Spanish dress, red with black sparkles, and a lace veil. The pinata was also in the shape of a doll with the same dress.

All the children stand around the pinata and swing sticks at it until they get fed up and just rip it down and maul it to pieces. Afterwards each child is given a bag of candy, a doll and a bull-fighter's cap, and a baby chick. These were real live chicks that had been coloured blue, green, pink or yellow. I bet all the mothers loved that, having their child come home from a birthday party with a strange coloured chick. The entire party was filmed and the girl received a tableful of gifts.

I try to attend as many things as I am invited to no matter what. Everything is a new experience and usually turns out to be lots of fun.

Last weekend I spent in Monterrey with a friend I have there, Diana. She is an exchange student from Burlington. Her family was very nice and invited me to stay there after my three months are up with my present family and Diana's three months are over there.

They are great people but I'd don't think I'd like to leave Saltillo and live in Monterrey.

It's too big. Monterrey is very hot and sticky compared to Saltillo.

Diana's brothers took us to the large planetarium in Monterrey. We weren't sure what film was being shown. As it turned out, it was a film on Canada. Diana started crying half way through, but I didn't though. The only time I really became homesick since arriving here was when I was at Diana's house and she got some letters. From one of them she pulled out a red maple leaf and we both burst into tears. It hadn't dawned on either of us until that point that the leaves would be turning colour back in Canada.

This week I have a long weekend. It is the Independence Day celebrations. Tomorrow night there is a big fiesta in the square by the large 400 year old cathedral and government palace. we are all planning to attend. Tuesday there will be a large parade down the main street of the city. There are also fireworks and lots of parties.

The holidays we get are very long, especially for Christmas and Easter. I get out for the Christmas holiday on November 28 and don't have to be back to school until January 12.

As time goes on I'm finding out that things are going to be pretty cool here during the winter. I might need my ski jacket...

Here in Mexico I find a particular custom to get used to. Everytime you see someone, you shake their hand, even if you're just walking by in the halls of the school. And the girls give each other a kiss when they meet. At first I found this difficult to get used to but now it doesn't bother me quite so much.

At school we have to buy all our own text books. I never knew how lucky we were at school, getting everything supplied for us. Those text books are expensive!

Adios.

Lee Potter, left, Minden high school student who is spending a year in Mexico, meets with three other exchange students attending the same school in Saltillo and the vice principal, centre. The students include, from the left, Lee, Michele of the Yukon, vice principal and grammar teacher Adriamma, Larry from Connecticut and Laura from Boston. The four are students at Instituto Tecnologico de Estudios Superiores. The photo was taken shortly after Lee's arrival for inclusion in the student newspaper.

Precautions can help prevent chimney fires

The swing to alternative heating sources such as wood burning appliances, has increased concern over the possibilities of chimney fires.

Research shows that fires can occur in any type of chimney, whether brick or metal, insulated or uninsulated. Nor does the type of fuel you use make much difference. However, the majority of chimney fires have been associated with wood burning appliances such as stoves and fireplaces. The main cause of these fires is the build-up in the chimney lining of soot and creosote - that smelly, oily liquid that comes from wood and coal tar. This is formed by the incomplete combustion of the fuel and is helped along by moisture in the flue gases. No matter what kind of wood burning method is used, you can't avoid the production of some creosote, but it is possible to reduce its build-up.

The Ontario Safety League recommends the following steps to lessen the possibilities of chimney fires:

Use only well seasoned wood - that is, wood that has been air dried for at least six months (preferably twelve months), after cutting and stored in a dry place away from rain and snow.

You can improve combustion by making sure there is a good air supply to the appliance. Airtight stoves produce more creosote because of their slow burning smouldering fires. Make sure the combustion air inlets on these stoves are open enough to produce an active bright burning fire. (This is particularly important after fuel has been added).

You can prevent condensation within the chimney by maintaining an active fire, also avoid chimneys with low insulating capability such as is the case with the single wall stove pipe.

The homeowner should not attempt to insulate an existing chimney as this could constitute a serious fire hazard.

Strictly observe the manufacturers' installation instructions with new appliances, particularly regarding distances between the appliance and walls.

Have the chimney inspected and cleaned regularly.

Where you have made alterations or with new appliances, the chimney and flue pipe should be checked every couple of weeks until you have established how often cleaning will be needed.

The likelihood of a chimney fire is increased by burning fuel at a higher than normal rate such as when paper, cardboard, Christmas tree branches, plywood or other scrap materials are burned.

If a chimney fire occurs, call the Fire Department.

Following a fire, have the chimney inspected by a professional to determine whether or not it is safe to use, or needs repair or replacement.
